ABSTRACT

This curriculum review presents and comments on state and county trends in the curriculum offerings of Oklahoma secondary schools. For comparison, it provides the secondary level curriculum offered by each secondary school in the state. Vocational education offerings are not included. The state mandates four units of English, two of mathematics, one of American History, one-half unit of Oklahoma history, two units of science, one-half unit of world history, and ten units of other course work. Local boards of education have chosen to enact additional graduation requirements, and schools offer a number of courses beyond these. The number of courses that are offered is presented in this review. Cleveland County offered 59.6 units, while Tillman County, at the other end of the scale, offered 25.5 units. Three charts and two tables present statewide summaries. Units for each school are presented in tabular form (465 tables). (SLD)

1992-93 Secondary School Curriculum Review

Purpose, Background, and Scope:

The purpose of this curriculum review is twofold: 1) to present and comment on state and county trends in the curriculum offerings of Oklahoma's secondary schools, and 2) to provide, for comparison purposes, the secondary level curriculum offered by every secondary school across the state.

All information for this project was gathered from the High School Program of Studies contained in the 1992-93 Application for Accreditation that was submitted to the Accreditation Section of the Oklahoma State Department of Education between October 1, 1992 and October 15, 1992.

The High School Program of Studies provided much valuable information; however, the following additional measures had to be taken to assure that fair and proper comparisons could be made:

1. There was no distinction made between classes that were offered yearly and those classes that were offered on an alternate year basis.

2. No form of Vocational Education was included in the state/county studies or course listings.

3. Subject areas included in the curriculum review were: Fine Arts, Foreign Language, Language Arts, Mathematics, Science, Social Studies and Physical Education/Health. The subject areas of Business Education, Computer Education, General Agriculture & Home Economics, Industrial Arts/Technology Education, Remedial Reading and Other Secondary were not included in the state/county studies or course listings.

4. Courses listed as "Other" within any of the subject areas were stricken from the curriculum review.

It should be pointed out that the instructions for completing the High School Program of Studies stress that all forms of instructional delivery (classroom, satellite broadcast, interactive cable TV, etc.) should be included in the course listings.

Finally, secondary level education in Oklahoma includes grades 9 through 12 and all secondary level schools have been included in the curriculum review. The gathering of secondary level curriculum data in most cases corresponded very well with the grade level organization of the school district, as shown in the following:

Elementary Level	Middle Level	Secondary Level
K - 5	6 - 8	9 - 12
K - 6	7 - 8	9 - 12
K - 8		9 - 12

There are, however, three additional forms of grade level organization, shown as follows:

Elementary Level	Middle Level	Secondary Level
K - 5	6 - 8	9 - 10 & 11 - 12
K - 6	7 - 8	9 - 10 & 11 - 12
K - 6	7 - 9	10 - 12

It was discovered that the course offerings of the senior highs with grade levels 10 through 12 were in fact comparable with the secondary programs of districts using other organizational schemes because in most every case where a 10 - 12 grade senior high format was utilized, all of the 9th grade courses were again offered at the secondary level.

In the case of the 9 - 10 grade mid high and 11 - 12 grade senior high format, one must simply keep in mind that the collective course offerings are what should be utilized when making comparisons with the more commonly seen 9 - 12 grade or 10 - 12 grade programs.

The following table indicates the number of schools across the state that utilized each type of secondary program format:

Secondary Level	Number of Schools
9 - 10 & 11 - 12	9 & 5, respectively
9 - 12	358
10 - 12	98

State and County Trends in Curriculum Offerings:

In the State of Oklahoma, there exists great variety among the public school districts. All public school districts are governed by a local board of education consisting of either 3, 5, 7 or 9 members. The State Board of Education has seven members and is charged with the supervision of the public school system of the state, and the State Regents for Higher Education supervise the colleges and universities of the state.

The Regents for Higher Education have established course requirements for entry into a state operated institution for higher education. The State Board of Education has established a minimum of 20 hours that a student must complete in order to graduate from high school. The requirements are: four units of English, two units of Mathematics, one unit of American History, one-half unit of Oklahoma History, two units of Science, one-half unit of World History and ten units of other course work. Many of the local boards of education have opted to establish district graduation requirements that exceed those set by the state. None of these should be confused with the number of COURSES OFFERED by each secondary school. It is the number of courses that are offered by an educational institution that will be presented in this curriculum review.

There is a great deal of variation to be found in the number of courses offered by each of the secondary schools in the state. For example, the state average course offering, with the previously stated modifications, in a 9 - 12 secondary program is 36.9 units per school. Broken Arrow's Mid High & High School (Tulsa Co.) unduplicated combined offering of 83.0 units was the most in the state. Carter High School (Beckham Co.), Kinta High School (Haskell Co.), and Calvin High School (Hughes Co.) all offered 15 units for the fewest number of course offerings in the state.

At the county level, the county with the highest average number of course offerings per district was Cleveland county at 59.6 units. The county with the lowest average was Tillman county at 25.5 units. The county with the greatest difference between the district with the most courses offered and the district with the fewest courses offered was Payne county with a high/low spread of 53.5 units. Table #1, entitled 1992-93 Number of Curriculum Units Offered - County Statistics, and Chart #1, entitled 1992-93 Average Units per District* In Each County, presents various statistics on the number of curriculum units offered at the county level.

The last item to be considered at the state level was the possible relationship between a school's enrollment, number of curriculum units offered, and its' students' performance on standardized tests. 1992-93 9th grade through 12th grade fall membership figures were used as the gauge for secondary school enrollment and the Normal Curve Equivalent (NCE) on the 1992-93 11th grade Iowa Tests of Basic Skills/Tests of Achievement and Proficiency (ITBS/TAP) was used as the measure of performance.

Table #2, that follows, will present the average 11th grade NCE, the 9th through 12th grade fall membership, and the average number of curriculum units offered in each of the seven previously mentioned subject areas for each of thirteen groups. The groups are based upon the total number of curriculum units offered in the secondary school program.

Chart #2, entitled NCE and Fall Membership by Units, utilizes three elements from Table #2 and offers several interesting trends for consideration. First, as fall membership increases, so does the number of curriculum units offered. This relationship is very uniform and the two factors correlate highly. Second, as the number of curriculum units increases, performance on the 11th grade standardized test also increases. The resulting trend line begins with a comparatively low average test score (less than 48) being achieved by those secondary schools offering less than 20 curriculum units in their program of study. Test results then increase to about 52 but remain at this level for schools offering between 20 and 55 total curriculum units. Beyond 55 curriculum units there occurs a marked upward trend in performance on the standardized test. It must be stressed that the contention is NOT that larger schools automatically translate into better test scores; however, it must be acknowledged that school funding is driven by enrollment, and it is funding and enrollment that enable and warrant a district's hiring of teachers and offering of a broader and/or deeper curriculum.

While the above observations are compelling, it must also be noted that school size and the number of curriculum units offered are certainly not the only pieces to the test score puzzle. Other factors such as the education of a child's mother, the family's and the community's socio-economic status, the child's parental situation, and home environment all weigh heavily on performance outcomes. In Oklahoma, most of the schools with larger enrollments are suburban districts with upper-middle class, low minority enrollments. A more detailed and complex analysis of curriculum offerings with controls in place for socio-economic factors may diminish some of the trends that have been observed in this review.

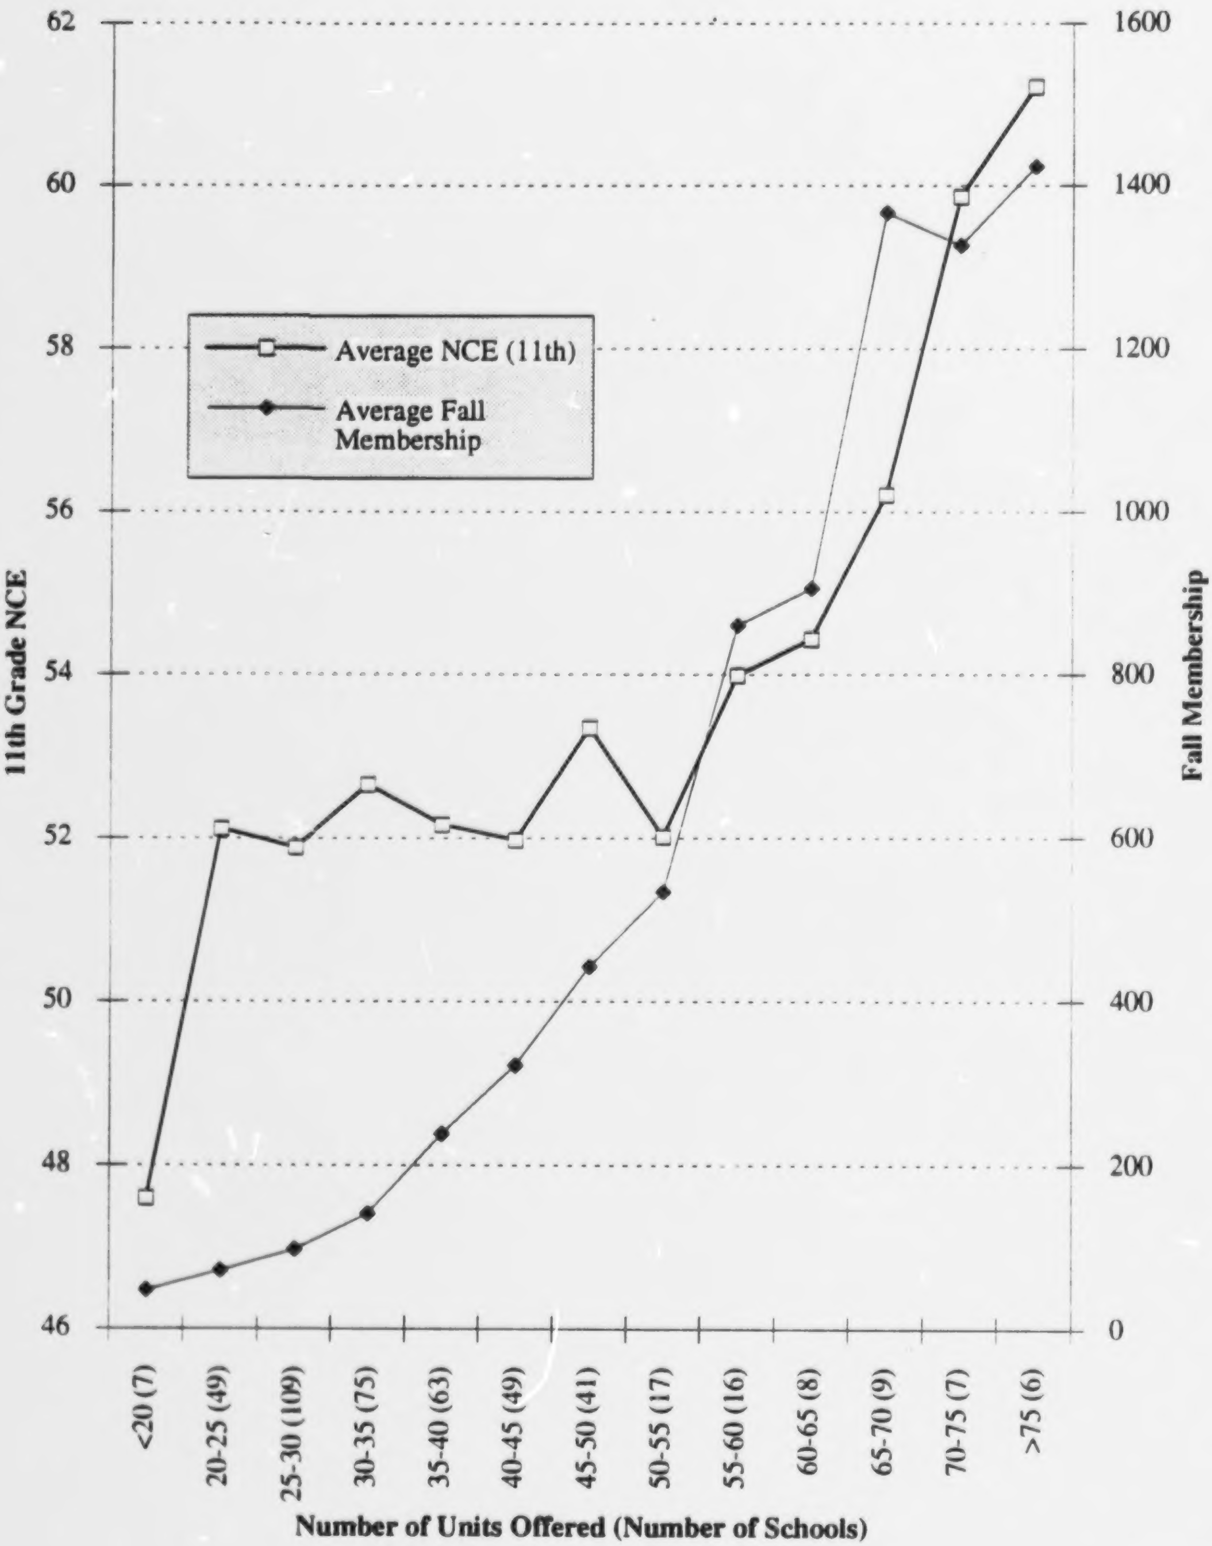
Chart #2
11th Grade NCE and Fall Membership by Number of Units Offered



The plateau in performance that can be noted on Chart #2 at the 52 NCE level between 20 and 55 curriculum units offered prompted additional study. Chart #3 entitled Curriculum Composite, graphically portrays the average curriculum components for each of the thirteen groups discussed earlier. For example, for the 63 secondary schools that offer between 35 and 40 total units, the average curriculum components are about one unit of Health/Physical Education, three units of Foreign Language, six units of Science, seven units of Math, seven units of Social Studies, eight units of Fine Arts, and eight units of Language Arts. It is interesting to note that between the 20 and 55 curriculum unit level the two subject areas with the greatest increase in offerings are Fine Arts and Foreign Language, neither of which are measured on the standardized performance tests. Apparently, as one looks at progressively larger secondary schools, the trend is to broaden the curriculum into the areas of Fine Arts and Foreign Language rather than deepen the curriculum in already established subject areas such as math or science. Because neither the Fine Arts or Foreign Language subject areas are tested, the test scores tend to hover at the 52 NCE level even though the total number of curriculum units being offered is increasing. Beyond the 55 unit level several of the tested subject areas such as Language Arts, Social Studies, and Science make some sizeable offerings increases which apparently resulted in the increased test performance.

Curriculum Offerings for Each Secondary School:

The final and largest portion of this curriculum review is devoted to presenting the curriculum offerings for every secondary level school in the Oklahoma. This section is initially organized in alphabetical county order and secondarily by secondary school number. Unless one is quite familiar with this system the Index by County beginning on page 481 and/or the Index by Secondary School beginning on page 489 will probably be the most expedient means of locating a given secondary school's curriculum information.

Once again, the courses included in this listing are those within the seven targeted subject areas of Language Arts, Social Studies, Foreign Language, Health & Physical Education, Mathematics, Science and Fine Arts. The previously mentioned modifications such as the striking of "Other" courses will also be in effect.
